

Win $150 by helping our research

We're collecting stories about different people's legal problems

Finding legal help can be really difficult. Especially if you don't know the right words to use.

Instead of making people learn complicated words and terminology, we're building a tool that will automatically understand the legal problems people explain in their own words.

This will mean that legal services organisations just like Justice Connect can provide people the right kind of help quickly and accurately.

Share your story with us, and go into the draw to win a $150 voucher every week.
